December 2004 Release:

The Pursuit of Justice and Jewish Law:

Halakhic Perspectives on the Legal Profession
(REVISED AND EXPANDED EDITION)

A Jewish lawyer is bound to -- sometimes torn between -- two disparate systems of law and ethics. What do you do when it's not enough to "do the right thing"? For that matter, how do you know what the right thing is? Michael Broyde, Professor of Law at Emory University, founding rabbi of the Young Israel in Atlanta, GA and a member dayan of the Beth Din of America, takes a fearless inside look at the ethical and Halakhic issues facing the Jewish lawyer and anyone caught up in the American legal system.

Some of the issues Broyde tackles head on:

- Litigating in secular courts
- Professional confidentiality
- Aiding a client in a violation of either Jewish or American law
- The ethics of cross examination and the obligations of a lawyer to pursue truth
- Problems of prosecutors or a defense attorneys
- The ethics of bankruptcy law
